Sunday Assembly is a congregation without God, where we meet to celebrate life and to make the best of our time here on this planet. Our motto: live better, help often, wonder more.

We welcome everybody without asking about their beliefs. Here in Berlin, we want to build a community of fun, reflection and taking action.

The Assembly inspires with readings and talks on how to live better, help often and wonder more. And what could be more fun than singing some great pop-songs together?

We are delighted to welcome the philosopher Stephen Cave as our first guest speaker.

Sunday Assembly Berlin is free of charge, but we kindly ask for donations during the service or via betterplace.org/de/projects/21310
